

April 2010

Dear :

*I am very excited to share with you a copy of STOP BEING NIGGARDLY (Gallery Books; April 2010; $19.99) by the unpredictable and controversial author Karen Hunter. The witty yet serious tone of the New York Times bestselling author and Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist includes twelve points, which originated from Twelve Things the Negro Must Do for Himself by Nannie Helen Burroughs.*

This is the new black agenda.

This book says it's time to stop marching and complaining and time to start rolling up the collective sleeves of the black community to fix their own problems. Hunter points out that although Burrough penned these twelve rules more than a hundred years ago... All of the points are still relevant today!

*Karen Hunter was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1999 as a member of the New York Daily News editorials to save the world-famous Apollo Theatre. She was the first black female news columnist for the paper and had an op-ed column for three years before leaving to pursue radio and writing. She has been a contributor on CNN, Fox News and MSNBC and in 2007, was named a Distinguished Lecturer in the Film & Media Department of Hunter College.*

Please consider STOP BEING NIGGARDLY for a review or feature attention. Please contact me for further information.

Best,

Erica Feldon
Publicity Manager
212.698.7081
erica.feldon@simonandschuster.com